RESUME NEGOTIATIONS

Final Efforts Being Made to Settle Military Difficulties With Obregon—Alleged Villa Plotter Arrested.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Mexico, May 11.—Major Langhorn with his second troop of eighth cavalry crossed the Rio Grande into Mexico last night, and are making their way southward today.

Strengthening Border Patrol.
El Paso, May 11.—General Funston desires to strengthen the border patrol by mounting 2,000 infantrymen on Texas points, and plans to make this recommendation to Secretary Baker, because the available forces of cavalry for patrol purposes have become practically exhausted. Texas points are being sent for patrol work, he believed, but are unable to maintain themselves on the scanty grass along the Mexican border, where regular cavalry mounts are unable to exist.

General Funston said he was considering a proposition calling upon the first Illinois cavalry for patrol work along the Rio Grande.

Time Limit Undetermined.
Washington, May 11.—Further indications that American army operations on the Mexican border are still indeterminate as to time, were given today in official quarters. It was announced at the war department that the national guard of Texas, Arizona and New Mexico will be mustered into the army for the period of their enlistment and with no specific time of federal service stipulated.

Secretary Baker said there was no definite conflict border reports that General Scott had served an ultimatum upon General Obregon for final answer upon the tentative protocol.

Arrest Villa Officer.
Corpus Christi, May 11.—Colonel Morin, a former Villa officer, charged with forming a plot for an uprising in this vicinity, was arrested nineteen miles south of here last night, by United States troops. He will be held for investigation.

Morin was heavily armed when arrested and important papers also were said to have been found on his person. He resisted arrest, but was overpowered.

Depends on Obregon.
El Paso, May 11.—Upon General Obregon depends today the outcome of the negotiations begun between him and General Scott and Funston some days ago. Unless he signed the agreement entered into by him by General Scott, or which appears to make radical concessions, it appeared probable that the American representatives would indicate to Washington the uselessness of further parleys.

Mexican officers in Juarez did not believe, however, that failure to sign at an understanding here would mean more than a transfer of the controversy to diplomatic channels.

Resume Negotiations.
Negotiations looking toward a settlement of the American-Mexican military questions, were resumed at ten o'clock today, between Major General Hugh L. Scott and Frederick Funston, representing the United States, and General Obregon, minister of war of the defunct government, and Juan Amador, sub-secretary of foreign affairs in Mexico. The conference, which may be the last, was held in General Scott's private car.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

"The tailors will strike at every establishment where there has been a walkout of cutters," he said. "We demand shorter hours, increased wages and recognition of the union. The New York delegation of the Rochester convention has promised to send $80,000 to the Chicago strikers' fund by the end of this week."

10,000 Will Strike.
Frank Rosenblum, member of the general executive board of the union, predicts that from 3,000 to 10,000 clothing workers will be on strike before the day is over.

The purpose of the meeting as set forth in the invitation to the gymnastic union, is to inform the members of the union of the political situation, and to prove to them that they have to deal with the United German American vote, which cannot be split in the separate states by political intrigue and trickery.

The union sent circulars today to its 200 branch organizations, stating the proposed meeting "appears to national executive board as not commendable, and adding that it must be left to the judgment of the individual member of the union to express his individual conviction at the polls."

Mr. Konop, it was stated, would decline the nomination to congress, because of sickness in his family while living in Washington.

Secretary Joseph K. Glindice of Schleisingsville, said Mr. Konop is the foremost candidate for democrats in this district, and that he is a native son of the state, and Chairman Joseph Martin of Green Bay was of practically the same opinion. Members of the committee also spoke warmly of Mr. Konop's ability as a campaigner, speaker and general mixer with the voters.

Jos. Martin was voted for the national committee chairmanship of Wisconsin at the meeting this afternoon, to succeed Joseph E. Davies, who holds a federal position.

Judge Karel was to be chairman of the delegation to the national convention and Senator Huston will represent the committee on resolutions.

BLAME TO ENGINEER IN NEW HAVEN SMASH

Commerce Commission Holds Hears Guilty of Running Past Signals Which Brought Death to Forty.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, May 11.—The wreck on the New York Central lines near Cleveland March 29, in which twenty-seven persons were killed and forty-one injured, was the interstate commerce commission reported today, to the failure of Engineer Hesa to see the signals or to read them properly on account of the dense fog in which his train was running.

The report to the commission cites the engineer's record since 1900 to show that he had been four times suspended for running past signals, and was again suspended last December for striking rear end of a train at Toledo, Ohio.

"The record of this accident," the report states, "together with a careful consideration of a record of accidents wherein employees have failed to obey fixed signals indications since July 19, 1911, brings forcibly to mind the fact that the rules relative to speed permitted during foggy weather are in many instances indefinite and vague."

BOTH HOUSES DEBATE

Commons and Lords Discuss Executions of Rebels and Whole Irish Policy.—Forty-four Persons Have Been Executed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, May 11.—Premier Asquith announced in the house of commons this afternoon that he thought it to be his duty to go to Dublin today.

Fourteen persons have been executed in Ireland, Harold J. Tennant, parliamentary undersecretary for war, told a questioner in the house of commons today. Seventy-three persons have received sentences of penal servitude and six of imprisonment of hard labor, the undersecretary said.

Debates in Parliament.
London, May 11.—The house of commons occupied even a more important position in the public mind, than they did at the time of the home rule controversy. Both houses of parliament were again engaged with them. John Dillon's motion for discussion of executions in Ireland, came up in the house of commons and the house of lords is considering Lord Lorne's motion expressing dissatisfaction with the Irish administration.

Execution Brings Protest.
The debate in the house of commons is regarded as the more important, for there the government comes under the cross fire of the whole Irish party and of a large number of liberal members, who are determined to bring to an end not only arrests and executions in Ireland, but martial law.

The execution in County Cork of Thomas Kent, although it took place before Premier Asquith gave his assurance that no further death sentences would be carried out until the debate was concluded, has brought forth protests from Irish parliamentary circles.

The nationalists also are concerned at the continued arrest and deportation to England for confinement in English jails, of rebels from all parts of the country. The number of arrests has not been made known, but it must be several thousand.

The number of casualties among civilians in the uprising in Ireland up to May 9, was given by Premier Asquith in the house of commons today as 180 killed and 614 wounded.

Can't Say No To a Woman!

A politician ascribed the progress of the suffrage movement to the fact that now men could not say "NO" to a woman.

And a few can, as most husbands will testify.

Advertisers realize that when they get a woman's eye a sale is half made.

And that is one reason why manufacturers are turning to the newspapers with their advertising.

Women are newspaper readers, as any advertising storekeeper will verify.

A good article newspaper advertised will command a ready and quick sale.

Manufacturers who would like evidence on this score are invited to write to the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York.

Duck by Duck.
An old farmer had brought twenty ducks to the market to sell and, after the usual amount of haggling inseparable from a bargain of that description, managed to dispose of the lot to a dealer.

"That's 30 shillings I have to give you," said the dealer as he proceeded to count it out.

But the old chap's strong point was not arithmetic, and he was not satisfied with this mode of payment.

"No, no," he exclaimed. "Ye bought them at wan an' six apiece, an' ye'll jist pay for them duck by duck."

And "duck by duck" it had to be.—London Scraps.

SCHENCK IN A PLEA OF GUILTY TO THEFT

Youth Makes Plea of Guilty to Grand Larceny Charge.—Is Released Until the Sixteenth.

Roland Schenck appeared in the municipal court this morning in the custody of Deputy Sheriff W. E. Wogan and entered a plea of guilty to the complaint charging grand larceny. The young man waived his preliminary examination, entered his plea, and had nothing to say except "that he took the stuff with another young man," when the court called upon him for a statement.

On the recommendation of District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie, sentence was not passed on Schenck this morning, as the police wished to investigate other cases of theft at the Y. M. C. A. building. The defendant's case was set over until the sixteenth, Tuesday, when the court will pronounce sentence. The five hundred dollar bail was signed by the father, and Schenck released from custody.

Chief Champion threatened to swear out two more warrants against high school students on the larceny charge for thefts at the association building. It appears that Champion gave these two young men two weeks in which to make a settlement and return some of the loot they are alleged to have taken from the locker rooms. The parents of these two boys were called to the city hall this morning and told the facts.

The charge on which Schenck is held is a most serious one. The complaint to which he pleaded guilty this morning alleged the stolen property was worth over one hundred dollars.

WHY NOT HAVE A FEW MORE BUBBLERS?

"Voice of the People" Would Like to Know Why the City Should Be Dry.

Mr. Editor: There is one thing that is needed in this city more than anything else, and that is more drinking places than we have at the present time. A person coming from out of the city would think that the water company belonged to a private corporation when they see the scarcity of water supply to the thirsty. At the present time, I believe, there are only two bubblers in the downtown district, one at the Corn Exchange, and the other in the Court House park. Why not have a few more, say a half dozen. Take on a Fourth of July, for instance, when we have a celebration, a woman with a family standing at the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets would have to trudge her way through the crowds to these places to quench their thirst; not only that, but after she gets there would probably have to wait half an hour for her turn.

This communication is not meant for a "knock," just a little reminder to our city fathers, who I hope will get busy and relieve the situation, very soon. (Signed) "A THIRSTY ONE"

Wednesday's Market.

Chicago, May 11.—Cattle prices advanced 10@25c yesterday, with 22 head of 1,201-lb. Angus yearlings belonging to State Senator U. E. Frank, highest May price record.

A year ago yesterday Senator Franklin sold a load of yearling steers at $3.60, also the May record up to a year ago. In May, 1911, best beef calves sold at $3.50.

Another 10@15c gain in lambs values carried woolled stock to $12.15 and shorn to $10.15, new record prices. Traders are predicting $11 coppers before the end of this month.

After a strong to higher start yesterday's hog market closed fully 10c lower. Armour houses were again out of the picture, owing to trouble with hog-killing gang.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $9.69, against $9.75 Tuesday, $9.71 a week ago, $7.55 a year ago and $8.37 two years ago.

Armour & Co. bought the 10,225 yearling steers yesterday. They were exceptionally fine and sold 30c above last week's top. Back in May, 1904, they bought the steers and made the lowest top for any month in twenty years.

Butcher stock shared in yesterday's advance, and calves advanced another 25c. Cattle receipts decidedly short all the week.

FACTS SET FORTH.
The democratic plea that President Wilson inherited the Mexican situation from the Taft administration and is not, therefore, wholly responsible, has been shattered by no less an authority than Philander C. Knox, former secretary of state. Mr. Knox points out that on February 19th Madero resigned as president of Mexico; that Piero Lascurain, secretary of state, automatically became president; that Lascurain immediately resigned in favor of Huerta, secretary of war and next in rank. This all took place on February 19th, and it was not until February 22d that Madero was shot. So that it is ridiculous to say that Huerta became president by murdering Madero, as Mr. Wilson has so often asserted. The Taft administration, in accordance with precedent, promptly demanded of Huerta certain guarantees of the safety of the lives and property of the 50,000 Americans then in Mexico and before Huerta's answer was received, and just twelve days after Huerta became President, Mr. Taft's term expired and Mr. Wilson became president of the United States. Huerta furnished the guarantees; all the diplomatic representatives of foreign powers resident in Mexico City, including the American ambassador, held that Huerta was the constitutional president and that his recognition would go far to restore order to the distressed republic. President Wilson, however, for reasons known only to himself, refused to recognize Huerta, and in the face of unanimous testimony to the contrary, that Huerta had become president by murdering Madero's predecessor—although Huerta had been president three days before Madero was shot—and not only refused to recognize Huerta but, when Huerta proved that he had the strength and ability to retain his office and probably to restore order, employed the army and navy of the United States to land at Vera Cruz and drive Huerta out of Mexico. Mr. Knox further proves the falsity of President Wilson's contention that in his course toward Mexico he followed the precedent set by President Lincoln by quoting Mr. Lincoln's instruction to the American minister in which Lincoln refused to join England, France and Spain in an attempt to break down the defunct government.

BUILDING ACTIVITY.

Present indications are that Janesville is about to undergo a period of building activity that has not been witnessed in many years. No really large structures are contemplated but remodeling of homes, construction of new homes and repairs in both the business and residence district, indicate that it is going to be a busy summer for contractors and workmen. Janesville is continually growing. It is not a mushroom growth, but a substantial rain. There are few cities in the state where more residents own their own homes and there are less renting properties than in the Bower City. It speaks well for the general prosperity of the city and such a growth is worth considering carefully. Janesville is so located that it reaches out for the business of a vast territory. Its railroad connections form a perfect network about the city and the interurban and country roads add to the ease with which visitors can reach the city. Nor do its advantages stop there, for the schools, the churches, the handling of the city government and the general tone of the residents themselves all bespeak a successful and prosperous community.

TRUE POLICIES.

Rock county is particularly interested in the coming republican primaries. Not only do they consider Governor Philipp an adopted citizen, delighting to honor him whenever the opportunity offers itself, but they have a candidate for United States senator in the person of Malcolm G. Jeffris who is known the length and breadth of the state.

THE BACK YARD GARDEN.

In the old-time country village or city suburb, nearly everyone raised a few standard vegetables. Now the tendency is to use the back yard for an automobile garage, or as a general rubbish heap or playground. Many people set out small fruits on the theory that once planted, they require no labor. Also they usually provide little fruit after the neighborhood boys get through with them.

THE CITY GIRL'S IDEA.

The city girl's idea of making herself popular is to eat suppers that the boys have to pay for, and the country girl's is to join a canning club and make something for someone else to eat.

His dark face clouded still more. "A badly grazed peck," he said moodily. And he disappeared, and by that time somebody else had Colonel Sander's seat.

FARMERS ADVANCE.

As pictured in the comic supplements, the farmer is a frowsy sort of animal. His clothes look like a tramp's, he is usually minus a necktie, and if his whiskers grow, they look like Carranza's.

The real farmer, as he comes down town these fine spring mornings, is a different personage. A number of other calls for contact with the beasts of the field or good red earth, he may not look just fit for a dancing party. But usually you can't tell him much from any other kind of business man.

An Iowa man was remarking the other day, that in his neighborhood the average farm is worth close to $30,000, and is increasing in value 10 per cent annually. A number of other states are just as prosperous as Iowa. Our friend remarked how many farmers now have houses lighted by electricity or gas, furnace heat, brussels carpets, lace curtains, pianos and violas. They have one or two automobiles, take one or three daily newspapers and as many weeklies, support churches liberally, and send their children to college and technical school.

Of course in the newer states, many of the farmers are where the Iowa man's father was thirty years ago. But they will soon come along. In the more unprogressive states of the east, it is not fully understood as yet that the agricultural college knows more than your grandfather. But this fact is much better realized than it was.

What folly then, for the newspapers to continue the preposterous habit of ridiculing the farmers, alleged rusticity. It could well be ignored, did it not lead some silly young people to quit the farms for the empty allurements of the White Way. Also it demeans workmen from going into the country, and makes it harder to get farm help, thus raising the cost of living for everyone. But the city man who pities the country people for their primitive condition may have to borrow money of them to help him buy the necessities of life.

THE BACK YARD GARDEN.

In the old-time country village or city suburb, nearly everyone raised a few standard vegetables. Now the tendency is to use the back yard for an automobile garage, or as a general rubbish heap or playground. Many people set out small fruits on the theory that once planted, they require no labor. Also they usually provide little fruit after the neighborhood boys get through with them.

It is commonly remarked that after you have paid for tools, fertilizer and labor, the garden costs more than the vegetables raised. But it didn't formerly, when the man of the house spread and hoed it for himself, and paid out no cash except a few dollars for seed and fertilizer. It is about as easy to raise beans or potatoes for five families as for one. If neighbors are friendly and intimate, they can make quite a saving in living costs by each raising one or two varieties, and arranging for a general exchange.

THE REST ROOM.

Do not forget that rest room proposition and make your donation as liberal as possible. Be generous for a cause that deserves generosity, and help the ladies who are behind the movement to better civic conditions by the establishment of this much-needed addition to our city.

The Balkan States.

The countries known as "the Balkan states" occupy the Balkan peninsula, the easternmost of the three great southern peninsulas of Europe, which in its turn takes its name from the mountain range of the Balkan. This great mountain chain, running down into the peninsula, is a continuation of the southern Carpathians or Transylvania Alps. The strict limits of the Balkan peninsula place its base on a line from the delta of the Danube to the head of the Adriatic sea, but part of the territory thus defined lies outside what is conventionally designated as the Balkan peninsula.—New York Times.

My Dentist Says I Have Pyorrhea

And that it is caused by uric acid; that it is constitutional, etc., and that nothing can be done."

Time and time again such statements have been made, all of which are now being absolutely and positively proven to be old-fashioned and out-of-date, by hundreds of modern, progressive dentists.

When local irritation is removed, and the New School Treatments administered, it follows that a cure, or perfect comfort, is the result of such treatment.

No matter what phase of faulty metabolism exists—in every case, if treated before the tissues are so hopelessly destroyed that the teeth are ready to drop from the mouth, the cure comes rapidly and certainly.

These old-fashioned teachings, about uric acid, faulty metabolism, constitutional causes, etc., give to the indolent or honestly wavering dentist a welcome excuse to fold their hands and join the "nothing-can-be-done ranks."

The above is an extract from an address by the President of a Prominent College of Dentistry.

POISON IS FATAL TO MRS. BALDWIN ON WEDNESDAY EVE

Drank Ounce of Carbolic Acid—Found by Husband Arriving Home From Beloit.

When Frank Baldwin returned on the seven o'clock interurban car from Beloit, he found his wife prostrate on the floor, with the effects of carbolic acid, which she had drunk.

Mrs. Baldwin lived about half an hour after she had been found, for the dead poison had spread until she was in such an unconscious state that medical aid given by Dr. Fred Sutherland was vainly administered.

Mrs. Baldwin was about forty-five years of age. She was a second wife of Frank Baldwin, a harness maker, who on Monday afternoon, May 8, at Beloit, The woman did not leave a note, or any sign, so far as is known, that would indicate that she intended and when found was lying on the floor, in terrible agony from the effects of the poison. Her throat, tongue and lips were badly burned and life was but a matter of a few minutes.

It is believed that the result of despondency, if she took the acid purposely to end her life. It is possible that she obtained the vial of carbolic acid from the drug store, where she had been buying since the latter winter months. The amount taken by Mrs. Baldwin is said to have been an ounce of ninety-five percent acid, and the bottle was found on a table in another room.

Mrs. Baldwin was very much attached to her mother-in-law, who died some time ago. Since her death, it is said Mrs. Baldwin went daily to the grave of the woman in the cemetery. Pending in the circuit court is a civil action suit over the disposal of the property and it is alleged by attorney of Frank Baldwin that the property was to be given to her care for the reason that his wife care for the old lady in her declining years. The trouble also appeared to affect Mrs. Baldwin to a great extent.

It is not thought Mrs. Baldwin killed herself through a premeditated suicide but rather drank the deadly acid upon a sudden and fatal impulse. D. Ryan, county coroner, made an investigation last night, and as Dr. Sutherland arrived before the woman died, no inquest will be held.

Mary Koplin was born at Watertown and since her girlhood made this city her home. She left her husband, one brother, Fred M. Koplin, of New York, Ky., and three sisters, Mrs. Albert Koch of St. Louis, Miss Clara Koplin, Milwaukee and Mrs. A. L. Koplin, of this city.

Funeral services will be held from the home of Mrs. Moshier, 417 Madison street, at two-thirty o'clock Friday afternoon. Interment will be made in the Oak Hill cemetery.

MOTHERS' DAY WILL BE OBSERVED SUNDAY

Special Services in Churches As Well As Due Honor in Homes Will Mark Occasion.

Next Sunday will be "Mothers' day," according to an act of congress in 1914 which set aside the second Sunday in May for a national tribute to the mothers. According to the custom, which has developed in the past two years, since Mothers' day will be observed in the churches and at other meetings on the day in all the cities.

Wearing of the symbol for mother which is usually a carnation, is popular for the dead and bright one for the living has also become a definite custom, and will be participated in this year. Although the carnation has become a popular badge of the day, other flowers are not inappropriate. Roses, sweet peas, and orchids will also be worn.

Several Janesville churches will dedicate their services to mother on Sunday, while practically all will introduce a reference to the occasion. The flower stores are making preparations for the demands of the day.

AGED FORGER TAKEN TO THE PENITENTIARY

Second Time at Waupun for W. N. Bentley, Possessed With Idea of Passing False Checks.

This afternoon Patrolman Jay Hymer, acting for the county sheriff, will take W. N. Bentley to the doors of the Waupun state prison to start a one year's term received from Judge Clark at Beloit, Wednesday, on a false pretense charge. This is the second term that Bentley has been in Waupun and the fourth entrance into various prisons that the Janesville authorities know about.

Bentley is a unique character. He is sixty-three years of age and the greater part of his life he has spent vainly attempting to pass forged or false checks and drafts. He seldom succeeded, for he was not a clever swindler, but rather a blundering man and after each criminal attempt was always caught. Terms in prison never learned or forced him to quit his futile efforts to pass a false draft.

From prison he would be released in some part of the country for attempting his "old game" again.

The Kauri Gum Diggings.

Kauri gum, found underground in New Zealand and dug to the amount of a million and a half pounds yearly. Is used for furniture polishes and varnishes, and most of it is exported to America. The industry of digging it is unlike any other in the world. A kauri forest is a beautiful sight, but kauri gum country is treeless, barren and desolate, even and swampy very often, with singularly heavy, cloggy soil, out of which the gum formed or kauri pines of ancient and long vanished forests is dug or speared. There are whole stretches of this treeless kauri country with nothing but a little scrub and fern growing on it.

SOLDIER BOYS BAKE BREAD IN DESERT

In the various field camps and headquarters of the American forces in Mexico bread is now being supplied direct from the army bakeries. In the early stages of the campaign food was carried from the border to the various camps and depots in motor trucks. The installation of the field bakeries releases these trucks for other important duties. The bread turned out in these field bakeries weighs about a pound per loaf. Uncle Sam has found that an army well fed will fight well, and hiking all day over dusty desert and cactus-grown prairie does not affect adversely the appetite of the soldier boys who are hunting Villa.

TO RESCIND ORDER FOR STREET PAVING

Council Decided Not to Pave South Franklin Street This Year—Curb and Gutters Ordered.

No paving will be laid on South Franklin street this year, the council members making this fact plain when it was stated that the brick paving order will be rescinded within a few days. It is now the plan of the council to order in the underground work for sewer, water, and gas connections, and next year put in some type of paving on this street from Milwaukee to Madison street.

This will allow for the payment of the underground work before the paving so that the combined expense will not come in the same year. Next year the paving schedule will be for South Franklin street and also North Bluff from Court to the industrial railroad tracks near the gas house. Underground work is also to be ordered on Blue street this year.

The council "backed up" on the Franklin street paving for the reason that it is now too late to go through the necessary proceedings again and let the contract, so as to get the payment done in a favorable time. The property-owners were unable to cooperate and name a pavement other than macadam to be put down on this street after a committee had inspected Beloit streets and reported to them the advisability of putting down a permanent paving. Also the new statutes provide an arrangement that puts a legal wall against the council in ordering a paving.

When the council met Wednesday curb and gutters were ordered in on the following streets: Holmes from River to Center avenue; North street from High to Washington; Rock from River to High; Union from River to Jackson; Center from Linn to Center avenue; Terrace from Mineral Point avenue to Highland avenue; Chatham from Elizabeth to Highland avenue; Mineral Point avenue, from Chatham to Glen; Hickory from Fourth avenue to Glen; and city work on Wisconsin street across the court house park. Sidewalks were ordered in on the east side of Ringold street from Ruger avenue to Racine; Burpee property, from east side Center avenue to north side Pleasant street; on the Owen property, Washington and Mineral Point avenue; Dr. Loomis property, Washington and Mineral Point avenue; and the Phillips property on Academy street.

Buy Insurance By the Month—Pay the Yearly Rate

That is, save one-twelfth the annual premium monthly, putting the money in a Thrift card (similar to Christmas Club), where it earns interest until used. Then as each annual premium comes due you will be ready for it, without worry or embarrassment.

But here is the real advantage of the plan—you will find it so easy to pay your insurance this way that you will buy more insurance, as much as you ought to take, because you know that the payment of the premium by this plan will always be within your means.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO ENTER UNCLE SAM'S DIPLOMATIC CORPS

Chance Offered to Aspiring Young Men Who Seek Foreign Diplomatic Service.

Here is an opportunity for residents of Rock county. Uncle Sam is still hunting for men qualified to act as clerks to commanders of armies located in foreign countries. He also wants clerks qualified in foreign languages for service in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, at Washington, D. C. On May 17 the civil service commission is going to hold a single examination to find eligibles for these positions. Those who pass this test successfully will be placed on the eligible list for both positions. Clerks to commercial attaches are paid $1,500 with expenses for travel and subsistence from Washington to the foreign post and return. Clerks qualified in foreign languages are paid somewhat less, but are in an advantageous position to qualify themselves for vacancies which may arise in the clerical positions, or for other high-grade positions in the field service.

As the examination is to be held in a very short time, candidates are urged to write at once for application blanks, which may be had from the civil service commission at Washington or from its district offices. Those desiring to take the examination are urged to file applications for both positions.

Candidates will be examined in the following subjects, which will have the relative weights indicated:

- Subjects—
- Copying and spacing (typewriting) 10
 - Copying from rough draft (typewriting) 5

GRABER GIVES TALK ON ALFALFA RAISING

Speaks Before High School Class in Agriculture on Culture and Value of Crop.

The agricultural department of the high school was most fortunate in securing L. F. Graber, secretary of the Alfalfa Order, for a lecture on alfalfa in his special line on Monday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon Mr. Graber addressed the agricultural class in two sections, and in the evening in the science room of the high school he spoke to a company of farmers and men interested in agriculture and showed slides illustrating the growing and harvesting of alfalfa. Mr. Graber is an enthusiastic and has the power of imparting enthusiasm to his hearers.

The beginner in alfalfa, said Mr. Graber, should first of all be interested in alfalfa. If he is not willing to pay attention to such important details as inoculation, liming, proper seeding methods, cutting at the proper stage and others, he is sure to get a bad hay crop and not a good alfalfa crop.

Inoculation Mr. Graber considers necessary in most places in Wisconsin, and soil taken from some successful alfalfa fields is recommended as the best material for the purpose. A field once inoculated properly is always inoculated. In case soil is not available for inoculation, cultures may be obtained for inoculating alfalfa seed previous to sowing, free from the government.

Mr. Graber emphasized the necessity for testing soil for acidity. He gave directions for testing and also told the farmers that they could have their soil tested at the high school. Methods of seeding were discussed, whether with or without a nurse crop. The beginner usually makes the mistake of seeding alone. The ground selected should be well drained and soil fertile. It should have been subbed by previous cultivation and be free from weeds, especially from fine grass.

To maintain a good stand nothing is so important as to cut at the proper time, just when the plants are sprouting at the crowns, the sprouts not being over an inch long. It is about this time the blossoms begin to appear. The hay should be cured under caps unless it is grown on a very large scale and labor is scarce.

And why one should grow alfalfa was answered by Mr. Graber thus: Because as a hay crop it excels all others in yields, feeding value, drought resistance and soil enrichment.

Mr. Graber's bulletin on alfalfa growing in Wisconsin may be obtained free from the College of Agriculture at Madison and will be found most helpful.

OLBRICH MAY PRESENT NAME OF LA FOLLETTE AT CHICAGO CONVENTION

Madison, Wis., May 11.—While no definite announcement has been made here as to who will be delegated to present the name of Senator Robert M. La Follette at the Chicago convention, it is generally assumed here that the task will fall to M. B. Olbrich of this city. Four years ago Olbrich was selected for this position. The only other name so far suggested is that of James Thompson of La Crosse, delegate at large. Thompson is said to be an influential speaker.

25,000 CLUB WOMEN TO ATTEND BIENNIAL

Monster Gathering Will Open in New York City on May 23rd and Continue Until June 2nd.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

New York, May 11.—Color is to be a feature of the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, presided over by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, which is to turn New York into a woman city the last of this month. There are 2,500,000 women in the federation, 9,000 individual clubs, and there are a few of those club which will not send delegates. In addition to approximately 10,000 delegates, 25,000 other women will attend the convention, which holds its sessions from May 23 to June 2, inclusive, in the Seventh Regiment Armory.

The armory is to present a beautiful appearance. The art committee arranged to fill it with gardens, and in addition to the clubwomen themselves, who always wear the gayest of gowns, every committee has a color by which it is known. There are so many committees that the colors of the rainbow have been used, and the women had to fall back upon fashion's color scheme, and orchid, raspberry, Alice blue with many others, are to appear in badges, with a new shade known as the "Physician's green," which will be worn by the emergency staff.

New York city and its different institutions are officially taking note of the arrival of this great army of women and the chamber of commerce is the latest to announce a program. The federation delegates will be the guests of the chamber of commerce on a trip to West Point on one day of their stay. One of the Hudson River Day Line boats will be chartered, luncheon will be given to the women on board, they will witness a drill at West Point, tea will be served there and they will return to New York to find cars chartered to return them to their various hotels.

The women will be guests of the Metropolitan Museum of Art on the evening of May 23. The art committee has arranged a trip to some interesting studios, and museums, and crafts shops are to be visited each afternoon. Blackwell's, Ellis Island, Coney Island will be among the places visited and there will be sight-seeing trips through New York city on the big buses.

Any number of luncheons will be given for the women, the International Welfare League entertaining on May 29. There will be a Shakespeare dinner at the National Arts club on May 30 and Mrs. William Tod Helmuth will give a dinner to the old standbys, the women's club pioneers, May 31. Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, who is a member of the Orange Woman's club, founded 1842, gives a reception May 23, and the National California club is to give a luncheon party at the Claremont May 31. There will be special Decoration day features on May 30.

A New York song has been written for the biennial, the state presidents are to have copies and every federation delegate is supposed to learn it by heart ready to sing on all occasions.

BUSINESS OF IMPERIAL BANK OF GERMANY LARGER THAN ANY YEAR BEFORE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Berlin, May 4.—The business of the Imperial Bank of Germany in 1915 was much larger than ever before, owing chiefly to large transactions for government account. The turnover reached the stupendous total of $23,550,000,000, which compares with $124,000,000,000 for 1914 and $100,000,000,000 for 1913. In other words, the business of the bank has considerably more than doubled since the war began.

The earnings were also far in excess of all previous years. They amounted to $85,000,000, or more than twice those of 1914. According to a law recently passed a special war tax was laid upon the Imperial Bank, in addition to the large proportions of the earnings falling to the treasury under older laws. Thus the treasury gets $47,500,000 of the earnings, whereas the stockholders get only $3,840,000, or somewhat less than for 1914.

"The Flames of Johannis" Tonight.

Patrons of the screen drama who are on the alert for big productions will be grateful for the announcement of the first presentation at the Beverly theatre of Herman Sudermann's poignant play "The Flames of Johannis" converted into a powerful five-reel photoplay feature for the Lubin company by Edgar Lewis with Nance O'Neill in the star role of Marika, a founding and Zarah, an old and disreputable gypsy. Miss O'Neill, the foremost American delineator of the tense emotional type, has found in the play the opportunity of her greatest career for the full display of her chosen field of characterizations in which she has no rival on either stage or screen. Between the characters of Marika and Zarah there is a wide traverse. Each of them, however, demands powerful acting and emotional climax and in each of them Miss O'Neill reaches the supreme pinnacle of her great art. Those who are acquainted with her capabilities in emotional moments will anticipate her artistic triumph in one of the scenes, it is, as described by Sudermann, "the true night." This is the eve of St. John's Day and, according to the folklore legend on which "The Flames of Johannis" is founded, on "the free night," lovers and their desires, "throw off the shackles of worldly convention. Marika is secretly in love with George, who betrays her to Gertrude, whom he does not love, is unaware of the passion that is hidden in Marika's heart. On St. John's Eve, fate arranges a meeting in the fields between Marika

NEWS NOTES FROM THE MOVIELAND OF DAISY DEAN

A familiar figure in Chaplin comedies is Leo White, who has been appearing in support of the famous comedian ever since he entered moving pictures. Mr. White, like Chaplin, is an Englishman, having been born in the city of Manchester in 1886. His first stage appearance was with the Gus Edwards Gaiety Theatre Company in London. He was a member of the Mlle. Modiste Company playing opposite Fritz Schell. Later he appeared in a number of musical comedy successes both in this country and abroad. When the first Chaplin company was organized some years ago, White was offered a position. He has been with Mr. Chaplin ever since.

SUFFER CRAMPS FOR SWEET CHARITY

Mae Murray, Blanche Sweet, Cleo Ridgely, Fannie Ward and Anita King, and other stars, are all suffering with writers' cramp, and there is not a drop of ink left in the studio. These photographs are to be sent to a Chicago publication for distribution.

"The Huntress of Men" is the title of Mary Fuller's latest picture. "The Huntress of Men" is a woman midway between a vampire and a flirt. Joseph Girard plays the role of a man among men who tames the heartless woman by proving immune to her wiles, marrying her by force and then hiding his love for her until mildred is sufficiently tamed.

Women and Love.

"A curious thing about this poor Signora that I'm playing in 'Twin Beds,' says Marian Ford, the comedienne whose work contributes so much to the fun of the Salisbury Field and Margaret Mayo farce at the Myers theatre Monday, May 15, "is that nobody seems to realize that she is suffering torments all during the last half of the play. And it's talking to people about the poor Signora that has convinced me that most people don't know the dickens of a lot about love.

"What? Do I? Well, I know this much, that love doesn't make the woman—the woman makes the love. To say that a woman is going to love any differently from the way she does anything else is like saying she is going to Bermuda with brown eyes and to Halifax with blue. Poor Signora Monti would be noisy and strident and funny, no matter what she did. It doesn't mean that she loves any the less.

"Not so very long ago I read an interview with a little actress in which she said that women were wholly fashioned by love—that made them whatever they were. It was all false ideas about love behind them. I could do to keep from going out to spank that child. I wanted to tell her that love came to us and went from us precisely according to what we were long before it either came or went—but I restrained myself.

"This protest is just and echo of that, and as a second thought, I can offer you the women are leaving more quickly than anything else; we're on the way up."

Be Neighborly.

The telephone is a great thing to cure loneliness on the farm, as it enables us to talk to our friends and neighbors in all kinds of weather and regardless of bad roads. But it does not take the place of actual visiting, and we ought to do more of that. This is true as applied to the young people. Encourage them to visit around as often as possible, and keep your own latchstrings out for others to come and call on your own.

Green Bay Woman Tells How Use of Tanlac Has Been of Benefit to Her.

"I was simply all run down, nervous, and discouraged and hardly knew what to do," began Mrs. A. Lefebvre, of 318 South Madison street, Green Bay, in a recent interview. "I suffered from stomach trouble and could, apparently, get no relief. I was so nervous that I could stand no excitement and besides I did not sleep well at night. I would often wake up three or four times during the night. I was subject to terrible headaches too. My food did not digest well at all and I rarely had any appetite. When, a few weeks ago, a friend advised me to begin using Tanlac, the new medicine, I at first did not have much faith because I had tried many remedies without success. I finally consented, however, and was surprised at the quick benefits I derived from the medicine. It soon braced me up and put me back on my feet. I now can eat heartily without suffering afterwards. I sleep well because my nerves are again steady. I can certainly praise Tanlac at a high class tonic."

Tanlac may be obtained here at Smith's Drug Store. The Tanlac representative will be glad to explain the medicine to you.

The TURMOIL

A Novel By BOOTH TARKINGTON

Author of

"Monsieur Beaucaire," "The Conquest of Canaan," "Penrod," etc.

Copyright 1914 by Harper & Brothers

She did. She had a look that worshipful girl friends called "regal." A head taller than her father, she was as straight and jauntily poised as a boy athlete; and her brown hair and her brown eyes were like her mother's, but for the rest she went back to some stronger and livelier ancestor than either of her parents.

"Don't I look too rich to be suspected?" she insisted.

"You look everything beautiful, Mary," he said, huskily.

"And my dress?" She threw open her dark velvet cloak, showing a splendor of white and silver. "Anything better at Nice next winter, do you think?" She laughed, shrouding her glittering figure in the cloak again.

"Two years old, and no one would dream it! I did it over."

"You can do anything, Mary."

There was a curious humility in his tone, and something more—a significance not veiled and yet abysmally apologetic. It was as if he suggested something to her and begged her forgiveness in the same breath.

And upon that, for the moment, she became as serious as he. She lifted her hand from his shoulder and then set it back more firmly, so that he should feel the reassurance of its pressure.

"Don't worry," she said, in a low voice and gravely. "I know exactly what you want me to do."

CHAPTER V.

It was a brave and lustrous banquet; and a noisy one, too, because there was an orchestra among some plants at one end of the long dining room, and after a preliminary stiffness the guests were impelled to converse—necessarily at the tops of their voices. The whole company of fifty sat at a great oblong table, a continent of damask and lace, with shores of crystal and silver running up to spreading groves of orchids and lilies and white roses—an inhabited continent, evidently, for there were three marvelous, gleaming buildings; one in the center and one at each end, white miracles wrought by some inspired craftsman in sculptural idiom. They were models in miniature, and they represented the Sheridan building, the Sheridan apartments, and the pump works. Nearly all the guests recognized them without having to be told what they were, and pronounced the likenesses superb.

The arrangement of the table was visibly baronial. At the head sat the great Thane, with the flower of his family and of the guests about him; then on each side came the neighbors of the "old" house, grading down to vassals and retainers—superintendents, cashiers, heads of departments, and the like—at the foot, where the Thane's lady took her place as a consolation for the less important. Here, too, among the thralls and bondmen, sat Bibbs Sheridan, a meek Bangoo, wondering how anybody could look at him and eat.

Nevertheless, there was a vast, continuous eating and the talk went on with the eating, incessantly. It rose over the throbbing of the orchestra and the clatter and clinking of silver and china and glass, and there was a mighty babble.

And through the interstices of this clamorous Bibbs could hear the continual booming of his father's heavy voice, and once he caught the sentence, "Yes, young lady, that's just what did it for me, and that's just what I do it for my boys—they got to make two blades of grass grow where one grew before!" It was his familiar flourish, an old story to Bibbs, and now joyfully declaimed for the edification of Mary Vertrees.

It was a great night for Sheridan—the very crest of his wave. His big, smooth, red face grew more and more radiant with good will and with the simplest, happiest, most boyish vanity. He was the picture of health, of good cheer, and of power on a holiday.

He dominated the table, shouting jocular questions and rallies at everyone. His idea was that when people were having a good time they were noisy; and his own additions to the hubbub increased his pleasure, and, of course, met the warmest encouragement from his guests. He kept time to the music continually—with his feet, or pounding on the table with his fist, and sometimes with spoon or knife upon his plate or a glass, without permitting these side-products to interfere with the real business of eating and shouting.

"Tell 'em to play 'Nancy Lee'!" he would bellow down the length of the table to his wife, while the musicians were in the midst of the "Toreador" song, perhaps. "Ask that fellow if they don't know 'Nancy Lee'!" And when the leader would shake his head apologetically in answer to an obedient shriek from Mrs. Sheridan, the "Toreador" continuing vehemently, Sheridan would roar half-remembered fragments of "Nancy Lee," naturally mingling some Bixet with the air of that uxorious tribute.

No external bubbling contributed to this effervescence; the Sheridan's table had never borne wine, and more because of timidity about it than conviction, it bore none now. And certainly no wine could have inspired more turbulent good spirits in the host. Not even Bibbs was an ally in this night's happiness, for, as Mrs. Sheridan had said, he had "plans for Bibbs"—plans which were going to straighten out some things that had gone wrong.

So he pounded the table and boomed his echoes of old songs, and then, forgetting these, would renew his friendly rallies, or, perhaps, turning to Mary Vertrees, who sat near him, round the corner of the table at his right, he would become autobiographical. Gentlemen less naive than he had paid her that tribute, for she was a girl who inspired the autobiographical impulse in every man who met her—it needed but the sight of her.

The dinner seemed, somehow, to center about Mary Vertrees and the jocund host as a play centers about its hero and heroine; they were the rubicund king and the stately princess of this spectacle—they paid court to each other, and everybody paid court to them. Down near the sugar pump works, where Bibbs sat, there was audible speculation and admiration. "Wonder who that lady is—makin' such a hit with the old man." "Must be some heiress." "Heiress? Golly, I guess I could stand it to marry rich, then!"

Edith and Sibyl were radiant; at first they had watched Miss Vertrees with an almost haggard anxiety, wondering what disastrous effect Sheridan's pastoral gaieties—and other things—would have upon her, but she seemed delighted with everything, and with him most of all. She treated him as if he were some delicious, foolish old joke that she understood perfectly, laughing at him almost violently when he bragged—probably his first experience of that kind in his life. It enchanted him.

As he proclaimed to the table, she had "a way with her." She had, indeed, as Roscoe Sheridan, upon her right, discovered just after the feast began. Since his marriage three years before, no lady had bestowed upon him so protracted a full view of brilliant eyes; and, with the look, his lovely neighbor said—and it was her first speech to him—

"I hope you're very susceptible, Mr. Sheridan."

Honest Roscoe was taken aback, and, "Why?" was all he managed to say. She repeated the look deliberately, which was noted, with a mystification equal to his own, by his sister across the table. No one, reflected Edith, could imagine Mary Vertrees the sort of girl who would "really flirt" with married men—she was obviously the "opposite of all that." Edith defined her as "thoroughbred," a "nice girl," and the look given to Roscoe was astounding. Roscoe's wife saw it, too, and she was another whom it puzzled—though not because its recipient was married.

"Because!" said Mary Vertrees, replying to Roscoe's monosyllable. "And forward nowadays, but you mustn't let 'em make you bluish."

"Am I blushing?" she said. "Are you sure?" And with that she gave him ample opportunity to make sure, repeating with interest the look wasted upon Roscoe. "I think you must be mistaken," she continued. "I think it's your brother who is blushing. I've thrown him into confusion."

"How?"

She laughed, and then, leaning to him a little, said in a tone as confidential as she could make it, under cover of the uproar. "By trying to begin with him a courtship I meant for you."

This might well be a style new to Jim; and it was. He supposed it a nonsensical form of badinage, and yet it took his breath. He realized that he wished what she said to be the literal truth, and he was instantly snared by that realization.

"By George!" he said. "I guess you're the kind of girl that can say anything—yes, and get away with it too!"

She laughed again—in her way, so that he could not tell whether she was laughing at him or at herself or at the nonsense she was talking; and she said:

He pounded the table and boomed his echoes of old songs.

also because we're next-door neighbors at table, and it's dull times ahead for both of us if we don't get along."

Roscoe was a literal young man, all stocks and bonds, and he had been brought up to believe that when a man married he "married and settled down." He knew that young married people might have friendships, like his wife's for Lamhorn; but Sibyl and Lamhorn never "flirted"—they were always very matter-of-fact with each other. Roscoe would have been troubled if Sibyl had ever told Lamhorn she hoped he was susceptible.

"Yes—we're neighbors," he said, awkwardly. "I live across the street."

"Why, no?" she exclaimed, and seemed startled. "Your mother told me this afternoon that you lived at home."

Slowly a deep color came into her cheeks.

"No," he said; "my wife and I lived with the old folks the first year, but that's all. Edith and Jim live with them, of course."

"I see," she said, the deep color still deepening as she turned from him and saw, written upon a card before the gentleman at her left, the name, "Mr. James Sheridan, Jr." And from that moment Roscoe had little enough cause for wondering what he ought to reply to her disturbing coquetties.

Mr. James Sheridan had been anxiously waiting for the dazzling visitor to "get through with old Roscoe" and give a bachelor a chance. "Old Roscoe" was the younger, but he had always been the steady wheelhorse of the family. As their father habitually boasted, both brothers were "capable, hard-working, young business men."

Physically neither was of the height, breadth or depth of the father. Both wore young business men's mustaches, and either could have sat for the tailor-shop lithographs of young business men wearing "rich suitings in dark mixtures."

Jim, approving warmly of his neighbor's profile, perceived her access of color, which increased his approbation. "What's that old Roscoe saying to you, Miss Vertrees?" he asked. "These young married men are mighty forward nowadays, but you mustn't let 'em make you bluish."

"Am I blushing?" she said. "Are you sure?" And with that she gave him ample opportunity to make sure, repeating with interest the look wasted upon Roscoe. "I think you must be mistaken," she continued. "I think it's your brother who is blushing. I've thrown him into confusion."

"How?"

She laughed, and then, leaning to him a little, said in a tone as confidential as she could make it, under cover of the uproar. "By trying to begin with him a courtship I meant for you."

This might well be a style new to Jim; and it was. He supposed it a nonsensical form of badinage, and yet it took his breath. He realized that he wished what she said to be the literal truth, and he was instantly snared by that realization.

"By George!" he said. "I guess you're the kind of girl that can say anything—yes, and get away with it too!"

She laughed again—in her way, so that he could not tell whether she was laughing at him or at herself or at the nonsense she was talking; and she said:

also because we're next-door neighbors at table, and it's dull times ahead for both of us if we don't get along."

Roscoe was a literal young man, all stocks and bonds, and he had been brought up to believe that when a man married he "married and settled down." He knew that young married people might have friendships, like his wife's for Lamhorn; but Sibyl and Lamhorn never "flirted"—they were always very matter-of-fact with each other. Roscoe would have been troubled if Sibyl had ever told Lamhorn she hoped he was susceptible.

"Yes—we're neighbors," he said, awkwardly. "I live across the street."

"Why, no?" she exclaimed, and seemed startled. "Your mother told me this afternoon that you lived at home."

Slowly a deep color came into her cheeks.

"No," he said; "my wife and I lived with the old folks the first year, but that's all. Edith and Jim live with them, of course."

"I see," she said, the deep color still deepening as she turned from him and saw, written upon a card before the gentleman at her left, the name, "Mr. James Sheridan, Jr." And from that moment Roscoe had little enough cause for wondering what he ought to reply to her disturbing coquetties.

Mr. James Sheridan had been anxiously waiting for the dazzling visitor to "get through with old Roscoe" and give a bachelor a chance. "Old Roscoe" was the younger, but he had always been the steady wheelhorse of the family. As their father habitually boasted, both brothers were "capable, hard-working, young business men."

Physically neither was of the height, breadth or depth of the father. Both wore young business men's mustaches, and either could have sat for the tailor-shop lithographs of young business men wearing "rich suitings in dark mixtures."

Jim, approving warmly of his neighbor's profile, perceived her access of color, which increased his approbation. "What's that old Roscoe saying to you, Miss Vertrees?" he asked. "These young married men are mighty forward nowadays, but you mustn't let 'em make you bluish."

"Am I blushing?" she said. "Are you sure?" And with that she gave him ample opportunity to make sure, repeating with interest the look wasted upon Roscoe. "I think you must be mistaken," she continued. "I think it's your brother who is blushing. I've thrown him into confusion."

"How?"

She laughed, and then, leaning to him a little, said in a tone as confidential as she could make it, under cover of the uproar. "By trying to begin with him a courtship I meant for you."

STATE BATTLE FLAGS WILL BE PRESERVED

Will be Displayed in Hermetically Sealed Cases in Memorial Hall

in North Wing of Capitol.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., May 11.—Battle flags carried by the troops from Wisconsin in the Civil war will soon be displayed in Memorial rooms now being fitted up in the north wing of the state capitol. Lawton Post, one of the officers of the capitol building commission, said today that as soon as the north wing was finished and the G. A. R. Memorial hall is completed these battle flags "will be hermetically sealed for generations, in plate glass fronts and will be an inspiration for present and future citizenship."

Because of the unusual interest in the battle flags of the state the Wisconsin Memorial day annual, just issued, devotes considerably more space to the history of the flags. These flags were first stored in the capitol; but early in 1875 by act of the legislature, were placed on display in glass cases. In 1896, following the completion of the state historical building, the flags were moved, where they remained until 1901. They were then placed in memorial hall in the capitol, but the fire on Feb. 27, 1904, caused another removal of the flags, this time to the historical building.

There they were kept until June, 1904, when the department encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, and its kindred societies, was held in Madison. The meeting was held in the assembly chamber and by direction of the governor the old battle flags were brought back to the capitol. So arranged in the rooms that the old flags were

AGREEMENT IS REACHED BETWEEN RUSSIA AND CHINA FOR RAILROAD

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Peking, May 11.—Agreement has been reached between the Chinese and the Russian governments for the construction of a railway in North Manchuria connecting the Trans-Siberian railway at Harbin with the Amur River at Aigun, and having a spur from the important town of Mergen south to Tsitsihar.
This new railway will be about 660 miles in length. Funds for the construction of the line will be raised by Russia through flotation of a bond issue. The railway will give Russia an added hold in North Manchuria, and is of special strategic and political importance. The Amur River, which will be brought into touch with Harbin, is a very important commercial highway in the open season. The river flows into the ocean far north of Vladivostok, and on its lower reaches there are important fishing industries, especially salmon canneries.

Madison Drug Clerk Notifies Illinois Authorities He Will Not Appear at Orpuit Trial.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., May 11.—While an attempt is being made to secure a sufficient number of veniremen to choose a jury for the trial of William H. Orpuit, former University of Wisconsin student, charged with the murder of Margie, officials of Lake Forest county are here still seeking evidence to be used against Orpuit. District Attorney Ralph J. Dady of Lake county, will endeavor to get Charles W. Hassinger, a local drug clerk, to testify for the state. Hassinger is supposed to have sold Orpuit a bottle, but through his attorney he has since denied this and has notified the Illinois authorities that he will not appear at the trial. The selecting of the jury will start on Monday.

TO STUDY EDUCATIONAL CONDITIONS AT HAMILTON

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., May 11.—Frank L. Glynn will go next week to Hamilton, Canada, at the request of its board of education, to make a study of industrial and educational conditions as a basis for a public system of vocational education. The invitation came to Mr. Glynn as a result of his presentation at an international convention in Cincinnati of the development work he is undertaking for the Wisconsin state board of industrial education.

The thing that especially appealed to the Hamilton representatives was the practical character of Wisconsin's program, the using of industrial establishments in co-operation with the continuation schools, the proposed system of advisory boards and the administration of the law. The representation of labor was urged by Mr. Glynn as absolutely necessary to the success of any scheme for continuation schools.

Quite a program has been set out for Mr. Glynn. After a careful preliminary survey of the industrial and educational conditions he will on Monday meet the employers and employees and the educational authorities in conference. On Tuesday he will meet the business men. And on Tuesday evening there will be a big public meeting.

Governor Philipp has given permission to Mr. Glynn to do this piece of work for Hamilton.

San Jose scale outbreak checked in Milwaukee park.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., May 11.—"The threatening outbreaks of the San Jose scale in several Milwaukee parks and cemeteries are now under control, after a thorough spraying," is the report of J. G. Sanders, state entomologist of the Wisconsin department of agriculture, Madison.

"The park board of Milwaukee has co-operated heartily in control of this dangerous pest by purchasing a high power spray machine, with which all infested trees and shrubs in the parks were thoroughly sprayed with the proper solutions.

Co-operation on the part of the park authorities is highly desirable to further our fight against insect pests, and Milwaukee is to be congratulated on the stand of her park board in these matters."

At Racine a similar spraying has been done by the park authorities with very satisfactory results.

At Kenosha a large area of the city has been thoroughly inspected, and all infested trees and shrubs have been sprayed. This treatment, it is believed, will prevent further spread of this pest in these cities, and the state entomologist believes that such spraying applied every two or three years will effectively hold the scale in check.

MARINE CORPS PRIVATE GETS THE THRIFT HABIT; BIG SAVING IN FOUR YEARS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Washington, D. C., May 11.—Here's a problem in high finance. A private of the United States Marine Corps saved $4,998.91 during a single four-year enlistment. He never advanced beyond the rank of private and his pay never exceeded eighteen dollars per month during that time. A good natural business acumen, with many spare hours to develop it along selling lines, gave this marine his nest egg, marine corps officials declare.

NEED OF TRAINING FOR RED CROSS WORK IN TIMES OF PEACE

United States Should be Prepared to Care for Sufferers in Case of War Says A. P. Bicknell,
Director.

(By Associated Press.)

Indianapolis, May 10.—Problems that Europe faces today in caring for the millions of war sufferers make plain the urgent need of Red Cross preparedness in this country.

Director of Civilian Relief of the American Red Cross, in a speech before the National Conference on Charities and Corrections in session here today.

"In the terrible tests of efficiency to which the societies of the Red Cross have been subjected by war conditions in Europe and in the assistance of untrained agencies as observed here at home," he said, "it is to be found a solemn warning to the American Red Cross of the vital importance of preparation."

Emphasizing the need of unified control such as is exercised by the Red Cross agencies in Europe, Mr. Bicknell said it was plain that the multitude of unrelated and independent agencies engaged in war relief.

European Situation.

Mr. Bicknell called special attention of the conference to the situation in Germany and Austria where it is impossible to import foodstuffs and where the efforts of the Red Cross are being hampered. "The problem there," he declared, "goes far beyond the requirement that help be provided for the families of killed and wounded soldiers. Germany's 'foreign' her thoroughness and her strong and direct control of affairs which we in the United States are prone to regard as outside the realm of governmental interference, were never more strikingly shown than in the manner in which she has regulated the private affairs of her people during the war."

"With a great war demanding the full strength of the nation, the government yet found time to give attention to the minutiae of the lives of the people. Whether the student of warfare may think of the 'war policy of Germany,'" he continued, "there can be nothing but admiration for the skill and courage with which she has preserved and protected the people amid circumstances of almost inconceivable difficulty. It is to be expected that the world will receive many valuable lessons in economics and administration as a result of Germany's masterly methods of conserving her resources during this war."

Mr. Bicknell said the number of persons made dependent by direct war operations had been estimated at more than 15,000,000, while the areas which have been actually fought over and desolated by the armies contained a population of more than 35,000,000 before the war.

U. S. Comparisons.

"It is as if one third of the population of the United States were trampled directly under the foot of war, while one seventh of all the people in the country were thrown upon charity for support. And," he added, "if all the inhabitants of the states of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Illinois were by some sudden catastrophe thrown helpless upon the charity of the world, the resulting problem in philanthropy would be no greater than that which this war has created in Europe. It is as though the entire population of the seven largest cities in the United States were suddenly plunged into a state of dependence upon charity."

The greatest single relief operation in the war zone, Mr. Bicknell said, has been that of the Commission for Relief in Belgium. The expenditures by the commission already have exceeded $100,000,000 the total contribution from the United States amounting to approximately $10,000,000.

"Thanks to the work of the commission," he remarked, "the people of Belgium and Northern France have fared much better than have the civilian populations in other sections overrun by war."

Mr. Bicknell said it had been impossible to establish a comprehensive relief organization, capable of meeting the conditions of need, in Poland.

"As compared to the relief operations in Belgium," he said, "the work in Poland has been pitifully inadequate both in amount and method. The return of peace in Poland will mark the beginning of a prolonged period of restoration and rehabilitation, requiring leadership and material help in generous quantity from the outside."

In conclusion, Mr. Bicknell said not less than 30,000,000 men had been called to arms and that the part taken by the Red Cross in the great struggle was second in importance and magnitude only to that of the armies themselves.

"It has been stated that 80,000 persons are fully engaged in the field and that the work of the British Red Cross society and there is no reason to doubt that in all the belligerent countries more than 500,000 persons were employed."

URGE THAT PEPSIN BE USED IN MAKING CHEESE

Madison, Wis., May 11.—Makers of American cheese are urged to use pepsin instead of rennet extract in the manufacture of their product in a bulletin issued by J. L. Sammis of the Wisconsin college of agriculture.

Experiments made at the dairy department of the university show that when pepsin is used in making American cheese the product is equally as good as that manufactured by the use of rennet extract, according to the bulletin.

Due to the reduced imports from Europe, there is no immediate danger of a shortage in the supply of rennet extract. However, if large quantities of pepsin can be supplied and used at American cheese factories there will be less difficulty in supplying rennet extract for making other varieties of cheese for which sweet milk is used.

Pepsin has not been used successfully in making Swiss, Limburger or brick cheeses.

The bulletin advises American cheese makers to procure a sample of pepsin at once and give it a try in their factories before their supply of rennet extract is completely exhausted.

THE "MEANEST MAN" IN ENGLAND IS DEAD

Lord Clanricarde, Who Believed He Was Better Than Common Human,
Given Bitter Obituary
Notes.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

London, May 11.—Lord Clanricarde, the British people called "the meanest man in England," died today.

What the London papers did to his memory, even before he was buried, was sufficient.

"The Meanest Man in England!" For half a century he held that distinction.

Today, in glaring columns amidst the war news, the London papers told the story of Lord Clanricarde's life. It is a story particularly for Irish folks in America. It was men like Clanricarde who drove the Irish to America. He was the meanest Irish landlord in Ireland.

Clanricarde's grandfather was a Catholic, British prime minister in 1827. His uncle was the first viceroy of India. When he was young Clanricarde got the idea that God made a few very rich, fine and cultured people to be human beings and that everybody who wasn't rich, fine and cultured wasn't human. Human rights, as he knew them, were the rights of the rich.

Canadian soldiers in Hyde park, not knowing their London, have looked with wonder and pity on a little weakened old man, in ragged, fifty-year-old clothes who used to sit on the public seats, the private seats cost two cents, a hard, cold look in his eyes.

This was Lord Clanricarde, owner of twenty square miles of land in Ireland, with Irish peasants paying him $150,000 a year. This was Lord Clanricarde, once the wealthiest top in London, victim of the idea that God made him to be a specially fine human being, with special rights.

In 1874 he fell heir to the castle of Portunna, one of the finest houses in Ireland, and the estate of 60,000 acres. He thought he had fallen heir to the lives and souls of his tenants too. He paid one visit to the estate in 1874. He never returned.

AGRICULTURAL and GARDEN DEPT

ALLEN B. WEST, Director

(By Allen B. West.)

Question: I have a number of plum and cherry trees. Some of my plums rot, and cherries are sometimes wormy. Is there any way to prevent these troubles? If so, how?

Answer: Plums and cherries should be sprayed at once with Bordeaux mixture, and arsenate of lead, the former for fruit rot and the latter for curculio, which is described as a "hump-backed bug of a mean disposition," an enemy to both plum and cherry.

Just after the blossoms fall, Bordeaux mixture should be used again for fruit rot and leaf spot, and the arsenate of lead should be added again for curculio. Ten to fifteen days after the blossoms fall and again soon after the middle of June repeat the spraying with the same materials for plums, making four sprayings in all of this same material.

In late July or early August use ammoniacal copper carbonate soap for fruit rot and leaf spot as Bordeaux fruit rot and leaf spot as Bordeaux is apt to discolor the fruit at this time.

For the cherries, which ripen much earlier than plums, the second spraying after the blossoms fall should be of the ammoniacal copper carbonate. After the fruit is picked, Bordeaux may again be used for leaf spot, using it first as a wash on the leaves and then from two to three weeks later.

Last year cherry trees were much infested with plant lice or aphids. Should they appear this year, the trees should be sprayed at once with nicotine sulphate. This may be added to the Bordeaux mixture at the rate of one tablespoon to 12½ gallons of Bordeaux.

When should apple trees be sprayed? I notice that some spray when the trees are in blossom and some spray after the blossoms fall. Which is the better practice?

Answer: Some of the most common troubles of apples in this section are scab, codling moth, curculio, and in some varieties of apple, bitter rot.

For scab, Bordeaux mixture should be used, first just before blossoms open and to it should be added Paris green or arsenate of lead for poison for curculio. The second spraying should be of the same material and should be given just after the blossoms fall.

This is the most important treatment in fighting the codling moth which is responsible for wormy apples.

The third spraying should be of the same material and be given ten to twenty days after the second, in late July or early August, it is necessary to repeat the same spray. The Bordeaux for scab and rot and the arsenate of lead for curculio.

SPRING VALLEY.

Spring Valley, May 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Parker were visitors at A. W. Palmer's on Monday.

The Faithful Farmerettes will meet with Mrs. Frank Van Skike next week Thursday.

Mrs. Malcolm Harper of Janesville came out Tuesday to spend a few weeks at her old home.

senate of lead or Paris green for the second brood of codling moth. This is important.

The trees should not be sprayed when in blossom, as the poison kills the bees which play an important part in fertilization of blossoms.

Question: Please give full directions for the preparation of Bordeaux mixture.

Answer: The following formula is sufficient for spraying twenty-five trees of ordinary size. Copper sulphate blue vitriol, 1 lb.; lime, 1½ lbs.; water, 12½ gallons. Dissolve the copper sulphate in 6½ gallons of water by putting it in a sack and hanging it near the surface. Slake the lime by pouring over it hot water and let it stand while the copper sulphate is dissolving, which will require about an hour. Care should be taken that it does not dry down during this time.

When slaked add to it 6½ gallons of water and any poisons you may wish to mix with the Bordeaux. Lastly, pour the lime solution and the copper sulphate together, straining through a cloth.

To test Bordeaux mixture to see if it is safe to use on tender foliage, insert the tip of a steel knife for at least one minute, when if the tip becomes the color of copper more lime is needed. If knife remains unchanged it is all right. The mixture should be well stirred before testing.

Caution: Do not use iron or tin vessels in making Bordeaux mixture. Do not use air-slaked lime. Do not make it in a sack and use it the next day. It would be well for all who grow fruit to clip this recipe and preserve for future reference. Notice that a half gallon is used per tree. The amount prepared may be varied to suit one's convenience but the proportions should be maintained. When trees are in full foliage it will require nearly a gallon to a tree.

Question: What sort of a spray pump would you recommend for a small home orchard.

Answer: For a small place in town a good bucket spray pump is all right. On a farm where there are more trees and horses to draw the apparatus about a barrel spraying apparatus is to be preferred. In either case one should have an extension rod 8 ft. in length. The pump should be of brass and the nozzle such as to throw the spray in a fine mist.

Two nozzles will be found convenient, one known as the "armover," being best for spraying fruit trees if the liquor is well strained, for it throws a misty spray. The Bordeaux nozzle is for spraying with lime.

HOMER BEATS CUBS; SOX DEFEAT YANKEES

Braves Win Slugging Bee With Chicago Nationals—New York Lets Sox Win.

Wilhoit's home run in the ninth inning turned victory to Boston on Wednesday after the Braves and Cubs had fought a see-saw battle. The score was 11 to 10. For Chicago, Williams and Zimmerman hit home runs, but errors of the Cubs came at critical times and spoiled what chance Chicago had of winning.

Pitching Poor.—New York played poor baseball here on Wednesday, Chicago winning their second straight game from the Yankees, 5 to 2. Keating pitched fair ball for the Yankees, but was poorly supported, especially by Alexander, who made three errors. Russell was effective for Chicago in every inning except the fifth, when New York scored twice on two singles and Pipp's triple. Fournier's batting featured. He made a home run and two singles and scored two runs.

Badgers Beaten.—Lafayette, Ind., May 11.—Purdue took revenge on Wisconsin for the defeat suffered on Saturday at Madison and defeated the Badgers, 4 to 1. Moon and Shrode both pitched effectively, but the Badger pitcher had a bad inning in the second.

Five hits and one overthrow by Fox netted Purdue four runs.

WELSH MUST APPEAR BEFORE STATE BOXING COMMISSION

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Chicago, Ill., May 11.—Word was received here Wednesday night that the Wisconsin boxing commission has summoned Fred Welsh to appear before it on Monday to explain his conduct during the recent fight at Milwaukee with Ever Hammer.

According to the report, the lightweight champion still has a fine record in rounds of that contest. Welsh's manager denies that the champion used alcoholic stimulants and asserts the charge made by the boxing commission is prompted by ill will.

GRADE SCHOOL NINES IN GAMES YESTERDAY

First Series of Baseball Games in Graded School League Are Played Yesterday.

The first games of the graded school baseball league were played yesterday afternoon and the four contests were played with great success. Through the efforts of the committee made up of H. S. Lovejoy, E. Beck, H. C. Buell and H. J. Center, this league has been formed and already the school boys are showing a great deal of enthusiasm.

At Tallman's lots the St. Patrick's nine defeated the Washington team 8 to 3. The Garfield school nine had an easy time with the St. Mary's bunch and piled up a Webster game the former had a still larger score of 41 runs to the Webster 9. The Garfield school nine put up the second largest score with 31 points to the Douglas school's 18. The umpires for the games yesterday were: E. Beck, W. A. Merrill, Roger Cunningham, Herbert Kaskus.

Following are the standings of the teams entered in the league:

JIM BARRY FOUGHT LANGFORD SIXTEEN TIMES; NOW TRAINING FOR COME-BACK

Jim Barry, who was a worry to all the heavyweights five or six years ago, is now planning a return to the fight game. Barry has the reputation of having fought Sam Langford, with varying results, sixteen different times. He is now training earnestly and thinks he will soon be in trim to cross bats with Coffey, Al Weinert or Moran.

MORRIS MILLER

In a Chattanooga-Little Rock game one of Gene Krapp's spitballs got away from Mike Andreen and the Travelers scored the winning run, whereupon Manager Elbeffeld announced that he had recalled catcher Peters from Waco and that he would release Andreen, who had been with the club less than a week, also release Powers just to keep his hand in, and stand pat on his catching staff as he started the season originally—Kitchens and Peters. The veteran Payne, who also had been sent railroad fare on a chance, will go along with Andreen and Powers.

The Pittsburgh Pirates have sold Catcher Bill Wagner to the Terre Haute Central league team. He was a bear in the Central last year with the Youngstown. Pittsburgh has left as backstops Gibson, Schmidt and Wilson.

New York scribes are inclined to blame Fred Merkle for much of the Giants' failure to date. One of the Metropolitan writers says that "back in 1903 Merkle forgot to touch second." This year he is even forgetting to touch first.

Fritz Meisel is said to be rapidly improving, but a New York critic remarks that he needs a good man on each side of him before he can be a real success as an outfielder. Just what is meant is not clear, for the Yankees certainly have the talent to back him.

Manager Clarence Rowland of the White Sox is quoted as saying that Fielder Jones has some speed on his team, but that he lacks hitting and pitching. Rowland says that in Shotton, Tobin, Marans and Sisler the Browns have about the fastest first four men up of any team in the American league.

The Chicago White Sox will be a troublesome club at times, but it is not a pennant aggregation, for the reason that the pitchers are not strong enough and what is more, there are two weak spots on the infield, first and third, needing stronger fielding than they now have.

Not that Boston Red Sox aggregation is not the powerful team it was last season, by any means. It will not repeat its performance of last season, though it ought to be the legitimate favorite in the race. The absence of Speaker has put the team back considerably, while the change to Cleveland has been of great benefit to that club.

Larry Sutton, for years scout for the Brooklyn Dodgers, who fell out with Charlie Ebbets last fall, announces that he has signed a contract to scout for an American league club. He is a real gumshoe artist, for he says it was part of his plan not to make the name of the club known.

Those two old cronies, Bill Sullivan and Sam Crawford, are room-mates when the Detroit Tigers are on the road. "We're together again after many long years," says Sullivan. "Sam and I were team mates at Grand Rapids back in 1889. But I beat him into the major leagues. I left to join the Boston Nationals one Saturday night, and Crawford left to play with the Cincinnati Reds the next day. We both reached our respective clubs on Monday, so he had me tied when it came to actually competing in a major league game."

Frank Isbel, owner of the Des Moines Western league club and once a star infielder with both Chicago teams, had a terrifying experience this last winter. He had recalled catcher Peters from Waco and that he would release Andreen, who had been with the club less than a week, also release Powers just to keep his hand in, and stand pat on his catching staff as he started the season originally—Kitchens and Peters. The veteran Payne, who also had been sent railroad fare on a chance, will go along with Andreen and Powers.

George McBride attributes his consistent hitting to the use of a Cuban wood bat. This spring Rodenas and Charrity both ordered a number of these bats from a Louisville firm and McBride has been using one ever since with the result that he is hitting better from ever before in his career. Many of the Nationals are using the Cuban wood bats and they are giving general satisfaction. These bats drive a ball much harder and farther than the wood which is used in most bats and for this reason are very popular with the players.

The Spokane club inaugurates a new ball park with the new season. The new grounds are at old Vindicator park, which was used as a ball yard ten years or more ago. Improvements have made an ideal location.

Pitcher Dave Gregg has failed again. The brother of the famous Vein tried out with Spokane, claiming his arm had come back after a year spent in the Canadian wilderness, but he couldn't get to the satisfaction of Manager Nick Williams.

Pitcher Earl Hamilton of the St. Louis Browns has had his automobile, which was the cause of so much trouble for him last year, to a man in Kansas for a house and lot. This ought to indicate that Hamilton means business this year.

The two major leagues, in arranging peace terms with the Federal league, agreed to pay $400,000 to the Feds, $100,000 to Sinclair and $50,000 to Gurner, respective backers of the Brooklyn, Newark and Pittsburgh Feds. But in view of the claim of the Baltimore Feds that they were frozen in the settlement, the attorneys for the organized baseball evidently have concluded that the other Fed promoters have not delivered the promised goods. The big leagues agreed to hand over more than half a million dollars in return for the dissolution of the outlaw circuit. The Wards, Sinclair, Gwinner and others in agreeing to these terms, also guaranteed the consent of the Baltimore malcontents. Organized baseball, therefore, has refused, in view of the Orioles' suit, to buy a pig in a poke.

PLAYS STEADY GAME FOR THE ATHLETICS

Larry Lajoie, who looks younger and lighter this spring than he has for years, is playing his usual steady game for the Athletics. Larry, who for years was one of the greatest stars of the game, was really given to the old Philadelphia club. That club sent a scout to get Phil Geier, a Washington boy who was then much in demand because he was the best of the youngsters. He and Lajoie were on the same team, and when the scout purchased Geier they threw in Lajoie for good measure. He developed into one of the best ball players and hitters in the history of the game.

Acting on the advice of counsel, organized baseball, represented by the national commission, has decided to withhold payments of cash to certain

Federal league clubs pending the settlement of the Baltimore Feds' $800,000 damage suit.

Manager Charley Herzog of the Reds, recently was quoted as saying he would keep Heinie Peitz all season as a coach. Somebody seems to have crossed him, for the announcement comes that Heinie has drawn his release.

HOUSE CAT NURSES ONE BABY FOX LIKE ONE OF HER OWN LITTLE KITTENS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Reedsburg, Wis., May 11.—A tiny Black and Silver Fox Farm near this city, the sight of a pet house cat of S. J. Collins, the manager, nursing a baby fox with her own two kittens, is a sight not often witnessed. The little fox is one of a family of five that were born recently and did not appear to obtain enough nourishment from its mother. Mr. Collins took the little chap away to the house and introduced him to Tabby, who had two tiny youngsters of her own. The old cat immediately adopted the fox and it is waxing fat and enjoying life immensely. When fully grown this fox will be worth many hundred dollars, so the experiment will be watched with interest.

Does Janesville Want Professional Baseball This Year?

Baseball is the one great American sport. It is the one game in which the majority of people find pleasure and recreation. Like no other game it grasps and holds the interest and enthusiasm of the American public to such an extent that fans daily travel one hundred or more miles to see a high class exhibition.

But the American public demands a real contest between big teams and therefore they turn to professional games. The question is now before the citizens of Janesville, "Do we want a professional team here this season?" It is believed that Janesville does want a team that will represent this city with honors.

The promoters of the Janesville Cardinals stand ready and anxious to give Janesville high class professional baseball. They will go to any expense to secure the best players if they can have the support and patronage of the public at large. Good players demand big money which in turn demands big attendance. Will Janesville give big attendances if the owners furnish good players and good games?

These same promoters have never knowingly mislead or defrauded the fans in previous seasons nor did they during the basketball season. They have played fair at all stages even at a loss of money due to poor support. They are not complaining now for they feel that their teams were appreciated.

Janesville Needs Professional Baseball

For the amusement it will furnish the public; clean, healthful amusement in the open air. It is the cleanest amusement open to the public today at a small cost.

For the outside people it brings to the city. For the advertising it gives any city. A dead town has never been known to boast of a winning team.

For the purpose of continuing friendly contests with our neighboring city, Beloit. A nine game series is now awaiting the action of Janesville in organizing a team capable of competing with the strong and famous Fairbanks-Morse team.

Here's Your Opportunity

A game has been scheduled for next Sunday afternoon at the driving park with Monroe.

A first class team is being signed which will be strengthened later for larger games if the public shows that it wants good baseball. Sunday afternoon will show whether YOU are a booster or not. Come to the game and ask for the subscription list which you will find at the office. Put your name down for any amount you can, to be paid the middle of the season.

Lyon & Healy, the Makers

Lyon & Healy have been in the piano business for fifty-two years and are recognized as the world's largest music house. They have an unlimited experience in the manufacture of all kinds of musical instruments, and have achieved unparalleled success in many branches of musical instrument endeavor.

Among Lyon & Healy's notable accomplishments in musical instruments is the harp. In 1886 the Lyon & Healy harp displaced the then famous European harp, and ever since has been the official harp of most of the European courts. The use of the Lyon & Healy harp in the orchestras of the great opera houses of Berlin, Paris, Petrograd, Budapest, Moscow, Hamburg, Frankfurt, Dresden, Copenhagen, Amsterdam, Vienna, The Vatican, Rome, and the famed Gewandhaus, Leipzig, is an incident of its world position. The men who make the wonderful harp can be counted upon as equally capable of making a good piano, for the piano is after all but a modernized harp.

Quality of the Lyon & Healy Made Piano

Lyon & Healy have handled at one time or another, nearly all prominent makes of pianos, and have learned as well as men ever can the requirements of a first-class piano. Certain qualities in the Lyon & Healy made pianos have been specialized and raised to a point of eminence obtained by but few makers.

Lyon & Healy Renovating and Repair Dept.

A constant source of education to Lyon & Healy is the very large renovating and repair department conducted as a division of the factory. It is universally conceded to be the most thoroughly organized repairing and rebuilding department in the country, and the operation of it has given Lyon & Healy an experience with pianos of all makes which has not fallen to the lot of another manufacturer. In the renovating or rebuilding department of the Lyon & Healy factory, ample occasion is afforded to take apart and rebuild pianos of nearly every American make, including such as are the best known and recognized as standard. The operations of this department show Lyon & Healy wherein pianos have weak points and they have benefited thereby. Lyon & Healy made pianos are strengthened where others are known to be weak and in them are incorporated the salient features of the best modern pianos.

The superiority of the Lyon & Healy system of construction and the unquestioned excellence of its workmanship are the best possible guarantee of the piano's quality of endurance.

The Lyon & Healy plan of interior construction has for its objective, devising and perfecting of improvements to strengthen the instrument, where experience has shown them that other pianos are more or less lacking in strength.

Source of the Pure Lyon & Healy Tone

The sound-board is made of quarter-sawn violin spruce exclusively, is heat-arched, and the ribs are pocketed in the compound bent-wood frame around the entire margin, and bedded in the rim where the sound-board crosses it at an angle of about forty-five degrees at the upper right-hand corner, and the lower left-hand corner, as the instrument is faced from the back. This system of constructing maintains a permanent arched or convex form of the sound-board toward the string pressure. Time and pressure of the strings cannot change it, and thus is assured permanency in the arched form of the sound-board toward the string pressure. This system will forever insure the piano against relapsing into a hollow, wiry or tinny tone, which is almost invariably the result in others of the arched form of the sound-board flattening or becoming actually concave under string pressure.

Reason Why Some Planos Lose Their Tone

Many are aware of the fact that pianos will in time apparently "lose their tone," but without knowing just why they lose it. It will be found, if every such piano is closely examined, and a straight-edge tried on the sound-board, that the latter has lost its arched form and in many instances will be found to present a concave surface toward the string side, instead of the original convex form which is so necessary for the preservation of the original tone quality. The construction of the Lyon & Healy sounding board is such that it will never give way to string pressure, never will dish, which is one very essential reason for the permanent tone. This is one of the leading features of Lyon & Healy pianos and the most important one.

Lyon & Healy String Bridge Does Not Crack

Another of nearly equal importance is the construction of the string bridge on the sound-board. In the majority of pianos, this bridge is made of two pieces of rock maple, the main piece or body of the bridge being a single cut, surmounted by a lateral section of the same wood of one-quarter of an inch thickness to receive the side bearing pins for the strings. Experience has shown that a great majority of pianos will in time develop cracks in the string bridge made in this manner. The cracks are always around the side bearing pins, which will gradually yield to the powerful side-pressure of the strings so that the piano will get out of tune shortly after being tuned, due to the yielding of the side bearing pins before the side-pressure of the strings.

The Lyon & Healy bridge is highly compounded, being made of eleven cross-banded sections of about 1/4-inch thickness, surmounted by the usual cap piece of quarter-inch thickness. A bridge made in this manner cannot possibly split around the side bearing pins, no matter how old the piano may be; and besides is a much better transmitter of the string vibration to the sound-board than the two-piece bridge in general use.

The Case Designs

The case designs of all our pianos are by eminent architects. The Style T instrument is a perfect example of how beautifully mahogany, walnut or oak may be wrought when in the hands of workmen of the highest skill.

The Tone

The tone of the Style T piano is characterized by a rich, full, round quality, well balanced between registers and superior singing tone.

Lyon & Healy guarantee that their system of construction is such that the Lyon & Healy made piano will retain without impairment the tone it had when new, as time passes on, if it is subjected to any ordeal which a first-class piano may be put to.

Claim for the Lyon & Healy Made Piano

Lyon & Healy do not claim for their piano that it is better than the best or older than the oldest. But they do claim that their make of piano in every respect is worthy of the name which it bears, and that in their experience of retailing for fifty-two years they have never been able to offer to the public a piano that would please the great majority of buyers so well.
